EYE IN THE SKY

How do you cozy up a Manhattan high-rise? Call designers Hendricks Churchill.

By Camille Okhio Photographs by Chris Mottalini Styled by Tessa Watson

The living room of a 43rd-floor apartment in Manhattan's Carnegie Hill, designed by Hendricks Churchill in a building by DDG, has skyline views. Sectional by B&B Italia; vintage Italian armchair in a Dedar fabric, Holler & Squall; custom cocktail table by Christopher Williams; mid-century Stilnovo chandelier; Yamaha piano; rug by Christopher Farr; walls painted in Dusty Road by Benjamin Moore and baseboards in Smoked Träut by Farrow & Ball. For details, see Resources.

In the kitchen, a Flos pendant hangs over a custom Molteni island. Appliances by Gaggenau; barstools by Nickey Kehoe; wall-covering by Jennifer Shorto; counters and stone wall in Statuario marble.

OPPOSITE: The breakfast nook's midcentury Danish sofa is in a Rose Uniacke fabric. Bleached-maple table by Brian Persico; vintage Paul McCobb chairs; sconces by Hector Finch; artwork by Lizzie Gill.
